ADYPU NEWSLETTER

OCTOBER 2026

“

True progress begins when knowledge inspires action and ideas create a lasting impact.

Dr. Rakesh Kumar Jain
Vice Chancellor

Editor's Message

Dear Readers
Some stories are told through ideas, some through achievements and others through experiences that leave a lasting impression on us. The October edition of the ADYPU Newsletter brings together many such stories from across the University.

This month, our academic engagements reflected the changing world around us. Discussions on artificial intelligence, automation and future-ready skills highlighted the need to prepare students for emerging opportunities. Industrial visits, expert interactions and academic initiatives offered valuable learning experiences beyond the classroom, while faculty research and publications added to the University's academic contributions.

Our students, too, have given us many reasons to celebrate. From cultural competitions, hackathons and Model United Nations to motorsports, their achievements reflect talent, commitment and the willingness to explore new possibilities. Impetus 2026 brought the campus alive with sporting spirit, as students participated enthusiastically across 12 sports disciplines.

Alongside these accomplishments, initiatives in mental health awareness, legal aid and community engagement remind us that education is also about understanding society and making a meaningful contribution to it.

Each contribution featured in this edition reminds us about the effort and collective spirit of our University community. I hope these stories encourage us to recognise one another's achievements and continue creating opportunities to learn, share and grow.
Happy Reading !
